THE EDITING SERVICE FOR SCIENTIFIC AND OTHER DOCUMENTS

SCITEXT CAMBRIDGE provides scientists worldwide with a full editing service for preprints, theses and monographs, research proposals and other technical documents in English. We also edit all non-specialist documents. SCITEXT was founded in the university city of Cambridge, UK and is one of many academic spinoff enterprises within this active and exciting research environment. Our editing service helps scientists to express their ideas with precision and clarity.

WHY USE SCITEXT. Your writing is the public record of your research project. To maximise its impact your document must be read and understood by as many researchers as possible. Since readers do not persist with documents that are difficult to read or unclear, particular effort must be invested in the writing. SCITEXT CAMBRIDGE accordingly provides you with friendly in-depth feedback on your important documents, allowing you to make significant improvements before submission.

- professional feedback eliminates discrepancy between what authors say and mean
- clearer documents are likely to be published rapidly without change
- authoritatively written documents are read and cited more by other scientists
- journal and conference editors today often do not edit in depth
- the time and cost of editing are typically less than 1% of a research project.

SCITEXT CAMBRIDGE's service is useful for all scientists - native and non-native English speakers - in improving the continuity of their writing. SCITEXT provides detailed line-by-line editing of the English in all documents. US spelling conventions are respected. We edit documents in all subjects including physics and astronomy, chemistry, the biological and medical sciences, psychology, materials science, all areas of engineering, geosciences, environmental science, computer science, mathematics and statistics, archaeology and anthropology, economics and econometrics, management.

WRITING COURSES. SCITEXT provides short writing courses for scientists at their own institutions worldwide. Our WWW homepage (see below) sets out principles of good science writing. These principles are deployed effectively only through the interactive learning provided on a course; contact us for details.

HOW SCITEXT WORKS. Clients send us their documents, which we edit to enhance flow of language and logic and improve clarity and continuity. Where there is a problem with logic flow our editor will make a query; we re-edit authors' changes made in response at no further charge (up to 10% of original document). SCITEXT does not alter formulae or change the meaning. A certificate of editing is provided.

Documents to be edited by hand should be sent via e-mail or fax or mail, and are returned by fax. We can read and print most types of computer file. SCITEXT also provides a fully electronic service which returns computer files with changes typed in.

All work is treated in confidence and SCITEXT is happy to enter into confidentiality agreements. Extracts from longer documents are welcome; clients should send the full document and indicate what is to be edited. Documents up to 12000 words are returned as fast as possible within 12 working days - longer ones proportionately. Accelerated services with return guaranteed in 5 and 2 working days are generally available. Conference organisers, who wish to improve the quality of published proceedings at no direct cost, are invited to contact SCITEXT for a quote to include editing of proceedings papers in the conference registration fee.

HOW TO USE SCITEXT. Clients should send to the managing editor at the address below:

- one copy of the document, formatted double spaced and not reduced
- a declaration of the number of words
- payment (see below)
- addresses for return of the document (e-mail or fax number; post).

Clients may for convenience use the submission form referred to below. SCITEXT will acknowledge orders by e-mail or fax. SCITEXT's processing time begins on receipt of both document and payment. Invoices and receipts can be sent on request. SCITEXT cannot guarantee acceptance of edited documents by journals - we make acceptance more dependent on scientific quality. Final responsibility rests with authors.

PAYMENT. SCITEXT CAMBRIDGE accepts payment by credit card (Mastercard, Visa, American Express), bank-to-bank direct transfer or cheque. Credit card payment should state card type, number, expiry date, name on card and cardholding address, and amount in UK pounds sterling; your credit card company will automatically charge you in your local currency. Clients may send credit card details by fax. For direct transfer please request our bank account details and state your own. Cheques are payable to SCITEXT CAMBRIDGE. Charges are: for editing by hand, 3.00 pounds (approximately 720 Yen, 6 US dollars or 4.5 Euros) per 100 words. For electronic file editing the charge is 3.50 pounds per 100 words, or 6 pounds (GBP) with changes shown (MS Word tracking). The word count should include all headings and captions and be rounded to the nearest 100 words. For the 5-day service multiply the charge by 1.8; for the 2-day service multiply by 2.5. We give quotes and accept cheques in all currencies although clients will generally obtain better exchange rates using credit cards. Up-to-date details and prices are always included in our WWW homepage.
